Arrival at Sydney Cove

In 1770, Lieutenant James Cook sailed along the east coast of Australia and claimed it for Britain, even though Aboriginal people already lived there.

Britain's prisons were overcrowded, so the government decided to send convicts to a new colony. In May 1787, eleven ships known as the First Fleet left England under the command of Captain Arthur Phillip. They carried convicts, marines, officers and their families.

After a voyage of about eight months, the fleet reached Botany Bay in January 1788. Phillip decided it was not suitable, and on 26 January 1788 he raised the British flag at Sydney Cove. This was the land of the Gadigal people of the Eora Nation.
